"Nodo50, System Error" is a documentary of the trip we started in July 2011 to move our servers from XS4ALL in Amsterdam to Stockholm.

At the beginning of 2011, the Assembly of Nodo50 started to consider to move their servers to a new data center, Bahnhof, in Sweden. The idea of a road trip was conceived during the initial brainstorming in how to minimize the downtime of the service and guarantee the safety of the data.

A trip by van: Madrid-Amsterdam-Stockholm-Madrid was the only way to never loose control of the data.

As the day of the trip approaches, the preparatory meetings and the intensive work sessions became routine. At some point, someone suggested the idea of documenting by video the 13 days planned for the trip.

The first of July 2011, we left Madrid, in our luggage we packed a camera.

Today, we present, a 20 minutes documentary out of a dozen hours of video recording. The documentary includes a summary of the two interviews with the founder and chairman of our new hosting provider: Bahnhof.

We hope that "Nodo50, System Error" manages to share our political and technical motivation to start this trip.

From January 2012, we will make several public displays of the documentary, we will keep you in the loop!
